

We spoke secret things to him and gave him new ways to think and work. His heart and mind grew to understand the world better.

Time passed among his people and he became a legend unbelieved through generations on the land. He became as one of us. Stories were told as far as footsteps could take them. A story useful and full of purpose to all.