

This one raised himself up above the rest with the joy he held within himself.

The hunts, all of the storms, the harvests and the conflicts...

All of these things he embraced with grace and vigor. This is why in the dance he leapt above all others.